14 How can we make the Justices feel support from us so that they can show great courage?

11 I don't like that we have to rely completely on SCOTUS. I'm not sure they have the courage. I'd feel a lot better if we had an alternative route.

4 The state legislators are an alternative, and perhaps a more correct way to proceed. But they are all too scared, nobody wants to go first. You show them evidence of fraud, and they say "it's not evidence that has been proven in Court." They brought the evidence to courts, and the court refused to look at the evidence because "too late", or the secretary of state certified so it must be good. Etc.

1 SCOTUS is the last alternate, legal route.

¹¹ He's talking about the Supreme Court, I think.

This is at white house tonight.

³ Or they can choose nothing, there is no law requiring them to send electors. Bad election, no results.

1 Yeah I think I would prefer that the SC just throw out the four state elections so it would go to the House.

2 I don't like this "if someone else does the right thing, it'll all work out" thing. We get fucked by the gutless
▼ GOP on this all the time.

I suspect he's talking the SCOTUS

2 It's a shame that Ben Shapiro is the Jewish face of "conservatism" instead of somebody from this crowd who ▼ actually recognizes and appreciates what an ally Trump has been for Israel.

2 Nobody Jewish thinks Ben Shapiro speaks for them. Jews would be happier if he just pretended to be a conservative without the "I'm Jewish" shtick.
